DO WE HAVE WEAPONS AGAINST INFLATION?

Today, more than ever before -- with rising taxes, increased military expenditures and anticipated rigid curbs on wages and prices -- the American journalist is worried about his financial future. What will inflation do to the newsman's income? What will Government restrictions mean to those with such specialized professions as editors, reporters, free-lance writers and others of the Fourth Estate?

To help answer these questions -- and perhaps many others -- the Overseas Press Club presents a panel of expert economists, men whose business it is to plot and forecast financial trends in America. And leading the discussion will be one of the nation's top economic writers and lecturers, OPC Member A. WILFRED MAY, executive editor of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, faculty member of the New School for Social Research and contributor to the Journal of Political Economy, American Economic Review, London Financial Review and other respected publications.

Present also will be other leading economists who will assist OPCers in formulating their own personal economic policies for the difficult years ahead. This is a membership-service project unparalleled in Overseas Press Club history. Attend this Roundtable and find out what the financial future holds for you!

No change in their policy of rejecting membership applications from journalists representing enemy (i.e., Germany and Japan) countries was voted by the Foreign Press Association at an extraordinary general meeting on January 25. Members resolved "that FPA will revise its past decisions with respect to Germany and Japan only when they have regained their full independence".

In a recent New York World Telegram & Sun interview, JACK S. CONNOLLY, chief of the newsreel and special events branch of the State Department's International Motion Picture Division, tells a droll anecdote of his first encounter with the late George Bernard Shaw. CONNOLLY approaches him about a film sequence. Barked Shaw: "Tell me, are you a success or a failure?" Thinking fast, CONNOLLY replied, "A success!" Then GBS bore in for the kill. "Really?", he intoned. "And how do you know?" CONNOLLY drew himself up, his eyes twinkling in a pink, pixyish face. "Because I am talking to George Bernard Shaw!" ....

TRENDS TODAY Correspondents in Yugoslavia are flexing their typewriter-fingers in preparation for a story soon to break there. They hear the UN will shortly dispatch an "observation" committee to Titoland, to be on hand in case of Soviet invasion for prompt reporting back to UN headquarters....A Swiss dateline is in the offing on an expose of trans-shipment of Allied strategic materials through Switzerland to satellite countries in Eastern Europe...

Watch for visits of American newsmen to Morocco in North Africa. Paris correspondents learned last week that France had signed a secret treaty with the U.S. for the use of seven strategically-important Moroccan air bases. Big Air Force activity in the area is forecast..

German rearmament program is being pigeon-holed, according to informed news sources in Frankfurt. Story is that British and French opposition is forcing a subtle change in U.S. policy. Therefore, the idea of rushing German troops into uniform is being reconsidered -- but definitely not abandoned....

Do people read The Bulletin?? Read this...On January 25 these pages included an item about a piece called "The Disappearing Foreign Correspondent" written by RUSSELL F. ANDERSON, editor of McGraw-Hill's World News, for the Michigan University Quarterly Review. The item mentioned reprints were available. Says Author ANDERSON: "You may be interested in the 'pulling power' and readership of The Bulletin. The story you ran about my foreign correspondent survey resulted in more than 100 requests for reprints!" .... And choice advertising space in The Bulletin can inspire just such "pulling Power" for selected advertisers!!

CLOSE RELATIONS ESTABLISHED
BETWEEN ARMED FORCE OFFICERS AND OPC AT CLUBROOMS PARTY

Warm personal and professional relations between Armed Force public information officers and OPC Members were cemented at a "get-acquainted" cocktail party in the Clubrooms last week. More than a dozen top-ranking PIOs from the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps attended the reception. No formal program was planned, so Members and officers circulated freely and exchanged introductions. RICHARD DE ROCHEMONT, "March of Time" producer, and veteran correspondent OTTO TOLISCHUS were on hand, as were GEORGE HERALD, HERBERT KUPFERBERG and Treasurer JOSEPH J. WURZEL of Look magazine...Also teen-age columnist BETTY BETZ and DANIEL VAN ACKER, plus Maj. WILLIAM ORMEROD of the British Information Services, TOM JOHNSON, GERALDINE SARTAIN, PATRICIA LOCHRIDGE and husband Henry Bull...the HENRY GELLERMANNs, SIGRID SCHULTZ and recently returned war correspondent RICHARD J. H. JOHNSTON of the New York Times.

From radio editor BEN GROSS' column in the New York Daily News: "The William Morris agency has signed an exclusive six months contract for the handling of the new Overseas Press Club TV series and several sponsors are already eagerly bidding for this ace item. Produced by Irwin Paul Sulds and titled 'The Inside Story', the program will present headlines among foreign correspondents in informal discussions of international affairs. The show will probably be simul-cast. Last season, the Overseas Press Club's forums were topnotchers in the field"....

***** Capsule reviews of new books recently received by the Overseas Press Club
* OPC BOOKSHELF * Library and now available for lending to Members:
*****

"Blunder in Asia" by HARRISON FORMAN (Didier Publishers, $3). In an excellently-executed book, OPCer HARRISON FORMAN draws on his 20 years foreign correspondence in the Orient to analyze America's past mistakes and set forth suggestions for the future. The FORMAN book provides a badly-needed, impartial background to present events in the Far East.

"Tia Juana Susie" by COLUMBIA SILEO (Rockport Press, $3). COLUMBIA SILEO, another OPC Member, turns out her first historical novel -- and does a top-flight writing job. A seasoned Latin-American correspondent, Miss SILEO gives her book a deft local flavor.

"The World In Crisis" by J. Salwyn Schapiro (McGraw-Hill Book Co.) This ably-done book by the professor emeritus of history at City College, New York, departs from tradition by discarding the orthodox method of narrative history and instead approaches by means of an analysis of the Political, social and economic movements. This book is a good guide for those confused by the rapid-fire trend of international events.

"Belgium and Luxemburg" edited by Dore Ogrizek (McGraw-Hill Book Co., $6). Next in the series of the "World in Color" which McGraw-Hill has been publishing. France, Switzerland, Great Britain, Italy and the U.S. have been completed -- and this new edition sets the same high standard. This, and other volumes in the series, are "musts" for foreign travel background.

"New China" by Otto B. Van Der Sprenkel, Robert Guillan and Michael Lindsay (John Day, $3). A roundup of the views of three non-Communist European observers -- following their varied journalistic and academic experiences in China. This book is particularly well-documented.

"The Politics of Murder" by Joseph Bornstein (William Sloane Associates, $4). The well-known European journalist traces the 20th century's most infamous cases of assassination for power. It is an interesting presentation of the increasingly close relationship between politics and violent death.

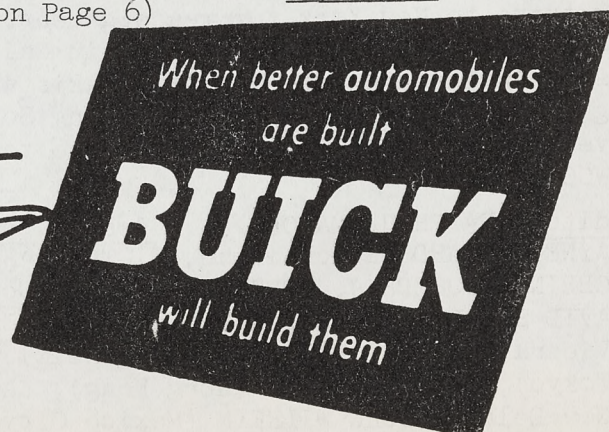

"Lincoln and the Press" by Robert S. Harper (McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., $6). Here, in broad panoramic sweep and dramatic detail, is the newspaper story of Abe Lincoln from the day in 1836 when his name first appeared in print to the time of his death in 1865. Of particular interest to journalists, this book provides a new and interesting approach to the telling of the Lincoln story.

THE OVERSEAS TICKER

MEXICO CITY DATELINE: (Special to The Bulletin) -- A new son, their third in a row, has been born to McGraw-Hill's JOHN WILHELM and wife, Peggy. He's been named Charles Maslin Wilhelm...Martin O'Neil, new bureau chief in Mexico for Time-Life, arrived recently with his pretty wife from Frankfurt and has already found a home in the Lomas de Chapultepec section of Mexico City. Time-Life threw a party for 100 guests to meet O'Neil....RICHARD MASSOCK, AP bureau chief here, returned from a two-month trip to Venezuela, where a constant series of crises there turned a one-week trip into a much longer stay. His new bride went with him on the trip...

Correspondents in Mexico presented BARRY BISHOP, Dallas Morning News, with a silver cigarette case at a farewell luncheon recently before BISHOP left for a new post in Washington, D.C. The UP bureau in Mexico City was depleted by one when William Giandhoni, night manager, was called up by the U.S. Air Force. Giandhoni held a captain's reserve commission. No replacement has been made in the UP staff as yet...

Journalist-visitors to Mexico recently have been Milburn P. Akers, executive editor of the Chicago Sun; REX SMITH, vice president in charge of public relations for American Airlines; Pete Ellis, UP science editor and Marguerite Clark of Newsweek, who came to cover the hormone conference in Cuernavaca; also Liston Clark, Voice of America, and "Mac" McCullough of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch came down to cover a Latin-American labor conference in Mexico City.

BANGKOK DATELINE: -- (By the OPC's Official Observer) -- Main journalistic interest here recently has been the visit to Bangkok of Mr. and Mrs. James (Tales of the South Pacific) Michener, here as part of a Far and Near Eastern trip for Life and the New York Herald Tribune. Before arriving here, they covered Korea, Japan, Malaya, Indonesia and the Philippines and are going on to Burma, India and Turkey...He is doing a series of five pieces on each country. The charming couple have quite taken Bangkok by storm. Of his mission he says, "I am trying to find out what the Americans want to know -- how the people of Asia live -- how they eat -- how they laugh -- what they are thinking -- how they earn their livelihood and what their hopes and aspirations are." We think he'll do it, too...

Your Observer is off for a three-month home leave shortly, travelling by slow freighter via Singapore, Port Swettenham, Penang, Colombo, Aden, Port Said to Genoa and then by rail and plane to Rome, Geneva, Paris, London and Washington. Needless to say, there will be a short layover to visit OPC Headquarters in New York. While I am gone, I have asked ALEXANDER McDONALD to fill in on anything that may happen here. -- (CHARLES L. COLTMAN).

FOREIGN MAILBAG: From Rome comes a note from ARTHUR REEF, newly appointed attache at the U.S. Embassy and Publications Officer for Italy. "Hope that any OPC friends and others in the area call us". BETTY and ARTHUR REEF moved to Rome to accept the post after ARTHUR resigned as editor-publisher of Heute magazine in Germany...

NEW DELHI DATELINE: (Special to The Bulletin) -- Recently returned to India after two years in the U.S. is RONALD STEAD, Christian Science Monitor, who's doing a series called "Men Against the Jungle" sponsored jointly by the Monitor and UNESCO....Norman Cousins, author and editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, visited here this month for lectures, discussions with educational and civic groups and to meet prominent government officials and Indian cultural leaders. His trip was sponsored by the State Department with a view toward bettering Indo-American relations...

James Michener on a temporary assignment for the New York Herald Tribune....Likewise Richard Parke for Harper's and The Reporter, who's also doing a book on India's foreign policy...MARGARET PARTON back on her New York Herald Tribune beat March 1 after maternity leave...The New York Times' ROBERT TRUMBULL on trip to Colombo, Ceylon, to cover the Commonwealth Consultative Committee meeting, which is to review the Colombo Plan...Selig Harrison has arrived to replace Steven David as assistant to HAROLD MILK of the Associated Press; David returns to New York for reassignment...

PERCY WOOD, Chicago Tribune, is in Cairo on the first leg of a Middle East roundup which will take him through Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Afghanistan....JEAN LYON, freelancing and writing for the Toronto Star, is touring South India...Martin Flavin, California playwright and novelist, is another visitor -- here to collect material for a new book. -- (Mrs. PERCY WOOD).
